

Internship Report

What did you learn?

During my internship, I had the incredible opportunity to immerse myself in global issues, gaining a comprehensive understanding of their impacts. Through working alongside professionals from diverse backgrounds, I developed and refined essential interpersonal skills, enhanced my communication abilities, and strengthened my teamwork capabilities. It broadened my perspective on global health, allowing me to see the interconnectedness of various factors that shape its landscape.

What did you do?

I had the opportunity to prepare comprehensive reports on the current status of Antimicrobial Resistance (AMR) in Asia and the Pacific. These reports were based on data obtained from the Global Database for Tracking Antimicrobial Resistance (AMR) Country Self-Assessment Survey (TrACSS). The process of researching and analyzing the data enabled me to gain a deep understanding of the AMR situation in this region. It highlighted the challenges and implications of AMR for animal health and provided valuable insights for future strategic decisions and policymaking.

I actively participated in internal and external meetings and seminars, such as the Global Conference on Emergency Management and the South Asia Rabies Laboratory Network Meeting. These events exposed me to important global health issues and provided opportunities for knowledge exchange with professionals from diverse backgrounds.

Additionally, I supported meetings such as the Asian Association of Veterinary Schools' annual meeting and the Regional Commission Meeting of WOAHRAP. This hands-on involvement sharpened my organizational skills.

Message to future interns

I enthusiastically encourage you to seize the opportunity of an internship with WOAHRAP. It is an extraordinary chance to embark on a journey of learning, contribution, and professional growth. By embracing this experience, you can make a meaningful impact, gain invaluable skills, and broaden your horizons in remarkable ways. Best of luck on your path toward becoming a global health advocate and leader!!
